

Toward Global Coordination of Monetary Policy

An Open Conversation with Masaaki Shirakawa and Gordon Hanson

Professor of Economics,
UC San Diego

Former Governor,
The Bank of Japan

Feb. 20, 2014 | 5:00 - 6:30pm

Sanford Consortium, Auditorium
(across from UC San Diego)

During the past six years, central banks around the world have thrown away the rulebook for monetary policy. As the global economy appears on the verge of returning to normal times, what comes next for monetary policy and how do central banks responsibly unload the trove of assets they have accumulated?

Center on Emerging and Pacific Economies

at the School of International Relations and Pacific Studies

Please register at: global-monetary-policy.eventbrite.com